Film From Wikipedia, the (free) encyclopedia For other uses, see Film disambiguation movie and Moving picture redirect here. For other uses, see movie disambiguation and Moving picture disambiguation. A film, also called a movie, motion picture or moving picture, is a work of visual art used to simulate experiences that communicate ideas, stories, perceptions, feelings, beauty, or atmosphere through the use of moving images. These images are generally accompanied by sound, and more rarely, other sensory stimulations.¹ The word cinema, short for cinematography, is often used to refer to filmmaking and the film industry, and to the art form that is the result of it.

Independent filmmaking often takes place outside Hollywood, or other major studio systems. An independent film or indie film is a film initially produced without financing or distribution from a major film studio. Creative, business and technological reasons have all contributed to the growth of the indie film scene in the late 20th and early 21st century. On the business side, the costs of big-budget studio films also lead to conservative choices in cast and crew. There is a trend in Hollywood towards co-financing over two-thirds of the films put out by Warner Bros. in 2000 were joint ventures, up from 10% in 1987.¹⁴ A hopeful director is almost never given the opportunity to get a job on a big-budget studio film unless he or she has significant industry experience in film or television. Also, the studios rarely produce films with unknown actors, particularly in lead roles.

Although San Francisco County began to allow cinemas to reopen on October 7, the majority of cinemas remain closed due to a boycott by the National Association of Theatre Owners of CaliforniaNevada, due to local guidelines prohibiting the sale of concessions. The group stated that this restriction makes it economically impossible for our members to reopen and significantly limits the moviegoing experience for our audiences.¹⁹¹ Cinemark announced later that month that it would reopen selected cinemas in the Bay Area and Santa Clara County, operating in compliance with the concessions prohibition.¹⁹² On October 17, New York announced that it will allow cinemas outside New York City and situated in counties with a 14-day average of cases below

2% to reopen on October 23, at a maximum capacity of 50 patrons per-screen.¹⁹³ On November 9, 2020, Regal announced that the selected California and New York locations it had recently reopened would close indefinitely November 12.¹⁹⁴ The same day, the share prices of AMC, Cinemark, and Disney rose on early reports by Pfizer on the efficacy of a COVID-19 vaccine in development by the company and BioNTech.¹⁹⁵¹⁹⁶
